Russians Are Driven From What They Regarded as an Impregnable Place by the Overwhelming Storming Force Hurlled Against Them.

DETAILED STORY OF THE GREAT FIGHT AT KIN-CHOU

Mikado's Forces, Though Under Fire Continuously for 16 Hours, Are Pursuing the Enemy to the Gates of Port Arthur.

TOKIO, May 27.—(Noon)—The Japanese army swept the Russians from Kin Chou last evening, and, in a desperate night attack, stormed the almost impregnable position of the Russians on Nan Shan Hill, west of Talienwan.

The battle raged in the hills all through the night and fragmentary telegrams from the Japanese headquarters report that the engagement is still in progress and that the Japanese are still pursuing the Russians south from Nan Shan and the head of Talienwan bay.

The meager reports reaching this city do not estimate the losses further than to say they are very heavy on both sides.

Before and during the land battle, Admiral Togo's fleet bombarded Port Arthur.

The Japanese forces were under fire for 16 hours. The general staff here has received telegrams from the commanders, commending the bravery and fortitude of their men.

Admiral Togo reports the loss of 10 men on the gunboats Amagi and Chokai, which bombarded Kin Chou all day.

The Russians had made elaborate preparations to check the Japanese movement south of the Liao Tung peninsula toward Port Arthur.

They had fortified the high ground on the south shore of Talienwan bay. On the south shore of Talienwan bay their works extended to the east and the west.

This hill was the strongest part of the line; a series of batteries, strongly emplaced, crowned its crest, while rifle pits extended around its sides.

MINES AND BARBED WIRE.

Mines had been placed lower down on the hill and around the base on the north and east sides were stretched wire entanglements, extended from the north line of defenses, also protected by wire entanglements, extended from Chiatung, near the head of Talienwan bay, due north of Luchia Tien, which lies to the north of Kin Chou.

A strong Russian force was posted at Chou. It consisted of infantry and artillery.

Japanese first occupied the line of the east of Kin Chou. Their position had been formed an almost perfect right angle, showing its southern front to Talienwan and its western front to Kin Chou.

RUSSIAN STRATEGY FAILS.

A Li Chan village was the apex of angle; the extreme right of the Japanese rested at Chen Cha Tien, which was due north of Chiu Li Chan. The extreme right was at Chiatung, the east of Chiu Li Chan. Back of the attacking force assembled complete security.

Russians apparently attempted to attack last Saturday, but their attack was repulsed. The Japanese opened fire slowly on the night of the 26th. The Japanese refused to be drawn until the positions of the Russian forces were known.

Russians, their guns and their had been fully developed. To the Japanese began a series of reconnaissances, their officers working close enough to the Russian to draw the enemy's fire. They carried fragments of shells for the purpose of ascertaining the caliber of the guns.

ANGRY ELEPHANT
AS CUPID'S AGENT

Animal Caused a Chance Meeting Between Miss Hodge and William Aiken.

HE WENT TO HER RESCUE

A Gallant Service Rendered by a Circus Man Wins for Him a Bride.

Pretty Irene Hodge of East St. Louis, 17 years old, was married yesterday to the show man who rescued her from an angry elephant that threatened her at the carnival held in East St. Louis last September.

William Aiken was proprietor of the Ferris wheel in connection with the street carnival, and chanced to be near at hand one day when a bad boy fed tobacco to the elephant. The elephant charged, trumpeted, and was very angry, terrifying the young lady. There is no record that the beast was about to seize her in its mighty trunk and that the agile rescuer, at the risk of his own life, snatched her away and threw her into his Ferris wheel, where she was hoisted out of danger from the enraged brute, but at any rate he was at her side in a moment and calmed her fears, making such impression on the young lady that a correspondence followed the departure of the show. Last Monday Aiken returned from his Texas home to call on Miss Hodge, who had already promised to marry him next September, a year from the date of their meeting. They visited the World's Fair yesterday, however, and to the surprise of even the bride herself, they returned to East St. Louis married, and left at once for their future home at Paris, Tex. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. May Childress of 729 North Ninth street, East St. Louis.

Clouds Will Be Followed by Rain Tomorrow, While Temperature Will Be Moderate.

More rain is the prospect promised to present period of unseasonable coolness. Cool weather prevailed today morning over the northern half of the country, excepting in the extreme East. The forecast: "Increasing cloudiness tonight, followed by showers Saturday; moderate temperatures; fresh north to east winds."

North to east winds with showers make a combination by no means pleasant.

Warm weather prevailed this morning in the South. Showers were reported east of Mississippi except in the southern states, and in Texas, western Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Utah.

WANTED A BILLION DOLLARS.

Chris McManus Arrested in a Trust Company.

"It's like a billion dollars, please," said a well-dressed elderly man in the office of the Commonwealth Trust Company Friday noon to Archibald G. Douglas, assistant secretary of the company.

"Certainly," said Mr. Douglas, "won't you please be seated while I count it out?" The man nodded in assent, and Mr. Douglas went to his desk and returned with a small box. He opened it and took out a small bag. A moment later he was surprised to see him come inside with Patrolman-Pattison.

"What? Arrest a man because he merely asks for a billion dollars? It's outrageous," he exclaimed as the patrolman told him to "come along."

Outside he became violent, resisting the officer vigorously. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he was placed in the observation ward. He gave the name of Chris McManus and said he was 51 years old and lived at 1109 North Twenty-second street.

He was formerly a member of the city fire department.

"Why he wanted a billion dollars," he did not explain.

Small Fire in Vacant Building.

Fire was discovered in the vacant three-story brick building at 18 North Third street at noon Friday. Four companies extinguished it with but small loss. The origin of the fire is unknown. The building is the property of the Albion company, and has not been occupied for some time.

President's Daughter Becomes Guest of Honor on Appearance at Illinois Building Dedication

LUNCHES AT ART HILL

First View of Illumination Was Followed by Pike Pilgrimage in Which She Led Sightseers.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the President of the United States, arrived at the State building entrance Friday afternoon at 1:25 for the first daylight visit to the World's Fair.

Owing to the fact that she rode in a phaeton, instead of in an automobile, as was expected, the courtesy of the Exposition was rendered unavailing, and her escort, George D. Markham, a director of the Exposition, was called upon to pay 50 cents admission each for the entire party.

Charles Baker, gate inspector, had received orders from the department of admissions to accept the announcement, "Miss Roosevelt in an automobile" as open sesame for her party, but "Miss Roosevelt in a phaeton" was out of his official jurisdiction.

Miss Roosevelt smiled merrily at the situation as Mr. Markham paid, and they drove inside to wait for the other members of their party, who came five minutes later in three automobiles.

Those in the first auto were Mrs. Catlin, Miss Warder and Miss Markham; in the second auto, Miss Irene Catlin and Mrs. Markham; third auto, William H. McKittick, H. McKittick Jones and R. McKittick. The entire party, which was to have been passed free as Miss Roosevelt's party in automobiles, had to pay admission.

At 1:30 Miss Roosevelt's party reached the Illinois building, where the ceremonies of dedication were just being completed with a reception in which President Francis, Gov. and Mrs. Yates, and the commissioners and ladies did the honors.

As Miss Roosevelt was recognized on entering the crowded building there was a rush in her direction, and President Francis was first to grasp her hand and escort her into the reception line.

Photographed With President Francis.

The handshaking was soon ended, however, and with President Francis and Gov. and Mrs. Yates, Miss Roosevelt repaired to the veranda of the building, where the four were photographed.

At 1:45 Miss Roosevelt arrived at the directors' room for luncheon, and as she drove up she ended a very uncomfortable three-quarters of an hour for her hostess, Mrs. Markham. The reception at the Illinois building had occupied her time for that much longer than was expected, and Mrs. Markham and others who were awaiting the arrival of the guest of honor for the luncheon became uneasy.

They did not know where she was. Mrs. Markham climbed to the dome of the west pavilion and gazed long and earnestly across the grounds, searching for her guest, and after awhile messengers were sent to the Illinois building to learn what was keeping her.

There was a genuine feeling of relief when Miss Roosevelt, escorted by Mr. Catlin, drove up to the pavilion, followed by the wagon in which were Mr. and Mrs. McKittick, Miss Catlin, Ephron Catlin, President Francis and Mrs. Perkins of Boston.

LUNCHES IN DIRECTORS' CLUB.

President Francis was not a guest at the luncheon, but was down for a speech at another luncheon in the same pavilion and went up in the elevator with Miss Roosevelt, that place of honor being relinquished to him by Mr. Markham.

There were a dozen guests at the luncheon, which was spread in the Directors' Club on the second floor of the west pavilion—a mahogany-furnished room, in which the only decorations were the snowy napkins and a mass of sweet peas and maiden-fern ferns rising from the center of the table. Miss Roosevelt sat looking across the Plaza of St. Anthony and toward the Pike, securing a view of the grounds regarded by many as the best.

Miss Roosevelt wore a short white skirt, white waist, a long light coat in the Louis XIV style and a large white sailor hat with a long white-dotted veil hanging from its edges.

Miss Alice Roosevelt was the magnet who drew an enormous crowd to the World's Fair today.

It was her first daylight visit to the Fair, and she enjoyed it. She visited all the large buildings, took a ride on the intramural railroad, caught a brief glimpse of the New York state building and visited the Philippine village.

And wherever Miss Roosevelt went there followed an eager throng of interested women and children, the women in the van, absorbed in the task of keeping pace with the vivacious and energetic daughter of the President of the United States.

Miss Roosevelt's handsome and simple walking dress was admired and criticized; the way in which she walked—with free, easy stride and with vigor and decision—was noted and commented upon; the set of her serviceable walking hat, the "hang" of her veil, and the attractiveness of her coiffure were marked and discussed; and women, children and the men who were with them, whether they wanted to be or not, saw and admired the brightness of her smile, the quickness and comprehensiveness of her glance and the energetic up-tilting of her well-rounded but determined chin.

Miss Roosevelt accepted the admiration of the crowd, and even the pronounced inquisitiveness of some individuals, quite as a matter of course. It did not embarrass her or prevent her from doing what she set out to do—seeing the Fair and having a good time.

Miss Roosevelt's visit Friday was to the big part of the Fair. She saw the Pike last night in the glare of electric light, and enjoyed it. Today she took up the more serious part of the Fair—and enjoyed that. She began her sightseeing with a view across the Plaza of St. Louis to the Cascade.

It was a view which she had taken the night before. But it was different now. At night she saw the glitter and glow of tens of thousands of electric lights, bringing out the curves and angles of mammoth sleeping palaces that were stately but ghostly backgrounds for the illumination. Today she saw those palaces awake, spreading their colors and tints under the golden sunbeams for the world to see them at their best, rising in stately domes and swinging colonnades from the gondola-laden lagoons at their feet, and backed by the glorious green remnant of Forest Park, which crowns the hill.

The Fair looked grandly different today from the Fair of last night—and Miss Roosevelt said as she looked upon it that she was delighted.

MERRIEST OF MERRY PARTY WAS MISS ROOSEVELT AS SHE "DID" THE PIKE

Miss Roosevelt's visit to the Pike last night was one of the distinct features of the evening at the Fair. After dinner at the Catlin mansion she and Miss Catlin, with Miss Warder, Thorne E. and Daniel K. Catlin, Walter McKittick, Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Catlin, went to the Lindell entrance in automobiles. Miss Roosevelt wore a light drab suit with a small blue hat from which fell two streamers of black lace. She was thoroughly interested, chatting freely and frankly eager to see the Fair.

She gave an exclamation of delight when she saw the Pike, and she employed many adjectives to describe her impression of the illumination. She was not to see the Pike until she had come. It was to see the Pike.

WEBB CITY FOOT RACE MAN DEAD

"Bob" Boatright, Leader of "Buckfoot" Gang, Victim of Pneumonia in Kansas City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 27.—Robert Boatright, the former leader of the notorious "Buckfoot" racing gang at Webb City, Mo., died at the New Century Hotel, on West Twelfth street, at 11 o'clock Wednesday night. He was registered and known in Kansas City by the name of Law, and had been at the hotel only a few weeks. He introduced himself as a real estate man, and as seeking to dispose of a patent on a refrigerating apparatus. Last week he was attacked with pneumonia. Sunday night he was confined to his bed, and Tuesday night his illness was reported dangerous. He sank rapidly until death came.

"Bob" Boatright was the leader of a gang of foot race men who operated extensively over the country in 1902, and "cleaned up" more than a half million dollars. A business man would be brought in to bet the gang's money, because "his reputation was good." He would be told that the race was "fixed," and that there was only one way for it to result.

The business man, seeing there was no way to lose, usually decided to bet some of his money, too. The money, which was to win would fall down and the other man would get the money.

The gang, operated under what was known as the "Webb City Athletic Association." The men who were identified with huge business interests over the country were enticed into the meshes of the foot-race game and "worked" for thousands of dollars. Boatright was a saloon keeper. He, together with E. E. Ellis and a third man, named Brunley, was sentenced to three years in prison at Fort Scott, Kan. in March, 1903. For some reason Boatright never served his term. Dr. H. E. Mather, who has offices in the Altman building, was called to Boatright's bedside Tuesday night. He knew him as Law, but after his death discovered Boatright's real name and made out the death certificate accordingly. Boatright was 46 years old. He was a large man, five feet tall, and weighed 200 pounds or more. He was at one time a blacksmith and developed a fine physique while at this trade. He had a clear, piercing eye, and was a man of good appearance. Ten hours before he died he was taken to the hospital at Webb City yesterday afternoon for burial. The friends of Boatright finally gave his right name in order that bondsmen might have him identified so they could be released.

DAYLIGHT BANK ROBBERY

Man Wanted Only Gold—and Had Written Order—Uses Revolver to Insist.

AUBURN, Cal., May 27.—A man entered the Placer County Bank yesterday afternoon and presented a written demand for all the cash on hand. He sprang over the counter and fired a pistol shot at Assistant Cashier McFadden, but the bullet went wild. The robber seized all the gold in the money tray, emptied it into a canvas sack and started to depart. At the door he encountered Cashier Smith and waved him aside with his revolver. He sprang into a nearby cart and escaped. The bank officials decline to state how much gold was taken.

DELEGATE MCAULIFFE CITED

Member of the Municipal Assembly, Charged With Running a Disorderly Saloon, May Lose License.

To answer a charge of running a disorderly saloon at 1300 Cass avenue, Timothy McAuliffe, member of the House of Delegates from the Third ward and a prominent Democratic politician, has been cited to appear before Excise Commissioner Seibert next Tuesday morning. Charges against McAuliffe were lodged by Chief of Police Kiley and Capt. James Johnson of the Fourth police district. Half a dozen sergeants are named as witnesses. It is charged that a winery is operated in connection with the saloon, from which women are often taken in drunken stupors. It is also charged that a dance hall is conducted in the saloon. The dance hall, the police say, is frequented by thieves and persons of bad character. The murder of James Nolan in the saloon the morning of March 12, 1904, is cited as an additional reason why it should be closed.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN

Requires Treatment Which Acts in Harmony with the Female System.

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary medical treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by derangement of the female organism, and which while it causes disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar utero-tonic effects as well; in other words, a derangement of the female organs may have such a disturbing effect upon a woman's whole system as to cause serious indigestion and dyspepsia, and it cannot be relieved without curing the original cause of the trouble, which seems to find its source in the pelvic organs. As proof of this theory, we call attention to the letters from Mrs. Maggie Wright and Mrs. Emma Sawyer, who were completely cured by the use of

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years I suffered more or less with dyspepsia which so degenerated my entire system that I was unfit to properly attend to my daily duties. I felt weak and nervous, and nothing I ate tasted good or felt comfortable in my stomach. I tried several dyspepsia cures, but nothing seemed to help me permanently. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and was happily surprised to find that it acted like a fine tonic, and in a few days I began to enjoy and properly digest my food. My recovery was rapid, and in five weeks I was a different woman. Seven bottles completely cured me, and a dozen or more of my friends have used it since."—Mrs. MAGGIE WRIGHT, 18 Van Vorhis St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Many women whose letters we print were utterly discouraged, and life lacked all joy to them when they wrote Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., without charge of any kind. They received advice which made them strong, useful women again.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I will write and let you know how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I cannot express the terrible suffering I have had to endure. I was taken last May with nervous prostration, also had female trouble, liver, stomach, kidney and bladder trouble. I was in a terrible condition. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse. I got so I was not able to do any work. Was confined to my bed most of the time, and thought I would never be able to do anything. People thought I would not live. I decided to try your medicine. I have taken twelve bottles of Vegetable Compound and cannot praise it too highly, for I know it will do all and even more than it is recommended to do. I will tell every suffering woman about your medicine and urge them to try it."—Mrs. EMMA SAWYER, Conyers, Ga.

THIS OHIO M. C. A BEAU BRUMMEL

"Nick" Longworth, Friend of President and His Daughter, Attracts Much Notice at Fair.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati, who recently came into prominence by being photographed with Miss Alice Roosevelt at the Benning race track, is one of the notable frequenters of the Ohio building at the World's Fair and of the inside inn, where he is a guest.
Mr. Longworth says his presence in St. Louis at the time of Miss Roosevelt's visit is merely a coincidence. He came with the Cincinnati delegation Tuesday and was among the party which President Francis and Mayor Wells failed, through a misunderstanding, to receive at Festival Hall. Since then he, like the other Cincinnatians, has been royally entertained by President Francis and he declares that St. Louis is a "bully" place and the Fair is "great".
The congressman says he will probably not attend the ball in Miss Roosevelt's honor at the German building next Monday evening as he expects to return home Sunday.

Of the Benning incident, Mr. Longworth said:
"Miss Roosevelt was in a little party that we made up to attend the Benning races. A photographer got inside the clubhouse fence while we were there, and took a snapshot of Miss Roosevelt. Afterwards the plates were recovered from the photographer and destroyed. The photographer's permit did not authorize him to get within the clubhouse fence.
According to the way the story is told in Washington, the daughter of the President was photographed with several bills between her fingers in the attitude of one about to bet on a race.
In diplomatic circles it is said that the two most notable figures in Washington society are 'Charlie' McCawley and 'Nick' Longworth. The former is Maj. McCawley, the army officer who does the 'introducing' at the White House. Belonged to President's Club.

He has been widely advertised as the best dancer in the army. Mr. Longworth says that 'Charlie' McCawley is a very nice fellow and a good officer, and that his position compels him to be very much of a society man.

"But I want to say for myself," he adds, "that I was never accused of being a society man until I went to Washington. The charges were never made against me in Cincinnati.
Even now I do not deserve it. As far as pink teas and such affairs are concerned, I never went to a tea or an afternoon function in my life.

"That I am fortunate enough to be acquainted with the President's daughter is not strange. I have known her father quite well for several years. I have been out in society many times the same club to which the President belonged. In his college days—the President is one of the oldest class there. After leaving college I visited the West Front and met him. He was then a civil service commissioner. When I returned to Washington as a congressman I renewed the acquaintance and met Miss Roosevelt. I have been out in society many times in Washington, but I have never quit a congressional session to attend a tea. I must stand that as a blunder.

I confess to having played hooky to attend the races at Benning, but then the Kentucky congressman can give me cards and spades at that game. Congressman Longworth is 33 years old.

He is about 5 feet 10 inches tall and well built. His hair is dark, his complexion florid and he wears a brownish mustache that curls upward slightly at either end. One morning this week, when the weather was threatening, he appeared for breakfast at the inside inn, wearing white flannel trousers and a gray coat. Later he switched to a solid blue suit to call on President Francis. He has worn a brown derby during his walks about the Exposition.

By profession Mr. Longworth is a lawyer. Incidentally he is a wealthy bachelor. He took his first whirl at politics in 1897 and he says himself, 'got a bad start'. He ran for the state legislature and lost. But he tried his hand again two years later and won.
The congressional directory shows that in the fall of 1902 Mr. Longworth was elected to Congress, receiving 24,000 votes to 3000 for his Democratic opponent. He was recently nominated for his second term. He is a strong Roosevelt man and says he cannot see what will prevent his re-election.

As a national legislator Congressman Longworth is particularly interested, he says, in securing an appropriation for deepening the Ohio river from Pittsburgh to Cairo.
Mr. Longworth belongs to the 'silver spoon' class. His father was one of Cincinnati's richest citizens. He lives with his widowed mother in a beautiful home in Walnut Hills, a fashionable suburb. The Longworth family is connected with many prominent families of the United States and also has distinguished European connections. Congressman Longworth is a nephew of Bellamy Storer, ambassador to Austria.

PRINCE RATIBOR RETURNS.

Prince and Princess Hohenlohe Will Also Stop By Again.
Prince Karl Ratibor and his sister, Princess Elizabeth Ratibor, have returned to St. Louis to again visit the Fair. For several weeks they have been in Denver. They arrived in the city Thursday evening and are at the Washington Hotel. Count von Bismarck, German minister, entertained the prince upon his arrival.

They arrived in St. Louis several weeks ago in company with Prince Hohenlohe, but remained only a short time. Prince Hohenlohe is now in the West, but will return to St. Louis before leaving the United States.

BLIND WANDERER HAS HOME.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., May 27.—Blind, almost deaf and with his mind impaired, Lewis Mosher, after years of wandering and other years spent in hospitals, has been restored to his relatives here, where a fortune of $15,000 awaits him.

Mosher went West 20 years ago, and three years later all trace of him was lost. A short time ago his relatives learned that he was in the state hospital at Medical Lake, Wash., and brought him home. Mosher lost his sight and hearing as the result of a mine explosion. It is thought that his mental condition will rapidly improve.

Indians on the Pike.

Cummins Wild West, Indian Congress and Rough Riders of the World, co-sponsors of the Pike World's Fair, will open and give its initial exhibition tomorrow at 4 p.m., presenting Miss Lucile Muhlall, champion lasso rider and ropo of the world; Miss Nellie Smith, champion lady rifle shot; Troop of Zouaves, in cowboys; 750 Indians, representing 13 tribes, with all their noted chiefs, and including 75 Indian babies and full Indian band. The monster sham battle is participated in by 250 warriors.

There were high doings among Old Red-bellied J. Cummins Indians this morning. They executed the Irish dance, a wild air, fair the main essence of the Irish jig, and leaped into the air. Two ponies were born—the same type, meaning comes, and the other Waitabaw, which means Bladder.

NEW FOUND FRIEND TURNS HIGHWAYMAN

Alley Near Jefferson Avenue and Olive Street Is Scene of a Robbery.

While waiting for an "owl" car at Jefferson avenue and Olive street early Friday morning Anton Ziegelmeyer of 721 Missouri avenue was robbed by a man who introduced himself as John Kelly.

"Kelly" stated that he was also waiting for the "owl" and induced Ziegelmeyer to accompany him into an alley, saying that he wanted to show Ziegelmeyer some property which he owned.

When they reached the alley "Kelly" drew a revolver and compelled Ziegelmeyer to hand out $15. Ziegelmeyer then went in search of a policeman, but when he found one "Kelly" had disappeared.

BORAXOLOGY

Boraxology is an "ology" of soap and water. And, when you stop and think of it, there isn't anything of so much importance to so many people. Soap and water and a box of BORAX go along with civilization. And the higher up in the mental and social scale you go, the more soap and water and BORAX you'll find. For toilet, bath, laundry, kitchen—for every cleansing process of the home—it is indispensable. When ever you wash anything, add a little Borax to the water and you double its cleansing power. GILLESPIE CASE IN JURY'S HANDS

Lawyers Finished Arguments Last Night and Court Made Its Charge This Morning.

THE DEFENDANTS SCORED

Prosecutor Tells Why State Holds Theory That Brother Slew Twin Sister.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KISING, SUN, Ind., May 27.—Judge Downey delivered the charge to the jury this morning in the Gillespie case and the men who have the defendant's fate in their hands immediately began their deliberations.

Attorney Shay of Cincinnati, in beginning the closing argument for the defense, this morning, explained the doctrine of reasonable doubt. When he said: "This poor old mother would rather go out to his grave and hear the cold clods rattle on the coffin of her boy than see him in the iron's garb," tears started from James Gillespie's eyes, but he quickly suppressed his emotion. Mrs. Barbour, mother of Myron, sobbed convulsively.

Col. Shay said the defendants were not pleading for mercy. They were asking for justice at the hands of their neighbors. Pointing to Mrs. Barbour, Shay said: "There is Carrie Barbour with her child in her arms, a frail little flower. I give her to you, knowing you will not send her to the gallows." Mrs. Barbour's tiny daughter, Mary, rose from her mother's lap and looked squarely at the jury. The mother and women in the audience cried.

Col. Shay dwelt with emotional sentences and with dramatic climaxes upon the character for generations of the families of Gillespie and Barbour. He told of the ancestors of James Gillespie and Mrs. Belle Seward, who had shed their blood in the wars of the country, and of the prize-winning lives of the ministerial ancestors of the Gillespies and Barbours.

Strong emphasis was placed on the testimony of Dr. A. B. Bell of Cincinnati, the former army surgeon and firearm expert. He asked the jury to weigh well the testimony of this witness, who, he said, had been selected by the government because of his knowledge, to a most important work. This expert, he said, had declared his belief from the conditions as he found them that a 16-gauge shotgun was not the weapon of Elizabeth Gillespie's death.

Spann Scores the Defendant.
The opening words of Prosecutor Spann's address to the jury were:

"Gentlemen of the jury, Elizabeth Gillespie is dead. After life's fitful fever she sleeps well, careless alike of sunshine or storm. On the banks of the beautiful Ohio she rests where the stars nightly wing their way and none in his grave is sadder than she. Over her untimely grave, we have heard much weeping over the living. Let us pause a moment over the memory of the dead. The defendants now weep standing under the shadow of the gallows, but they are not weeping for the dead Elizabeth, they are weeping for themselves."

"How much better it would have been if these defendants had wept some when poor Elizabeth lay dying, and the sad, weary-hearted, old mother was dabbling her trembling hands in the death blood of her murdered daughter. But no. Then the fountain of their tears was dried up. Hate and indifference marked their conduct. Now sorrow at their own peril makes them weep."

Spann contended that the murder was the result of a plot. James Gillespie was to do the shooting; Myron Barbour was to buy the shot, Carl Badger, Myron's brother and Belle Seward were to swear to the shot. James was to refuse to make any statements before the grand jury, and to let the jury decide if they were guilty. In this manner, relying upon their respectability and by overbearing, threatening and insulting neighbors, they expected to escape detection. But the people of the community knew who committed the crime, and they were all united. The defendants did not know the minute the murder was to be committed, but they knew it was to be committed with Jim's gun.

Spann Scores the Defendants.
Mr. Spann in chronological order gave the reasons why the state contended that James Gillespie fired the fatal shot. Because he hated his sister; because he had threatened her; because he had struck her; because he called her a vile name publicly; because he had said conveyance of real estate to Lizzie would do her no good; because the shooting was done with a 16-gauge gun; because Jim's gun was of that gauge; because the gun was in Lizzie's hand; because the gun was in Lizzie's hand; because Jim's gun was the only one of 16-gauge in Ohio County near scene of murder that night; all other such guns were accounted for; because footprints were heard running and stopped where the gate clicked; it was the click of an iron gate; Barbour's gate was of iron and it was conceded that it clicked just after the shot; because the darkest place for the murderer to travel was from the place of the shooting direct to the Barbour gate; the position of the trees showed that; because the shot was fired by a man thoroughly familiar with all surroundings; because he knew that at the hour of the shooting most people would be at supper; because he knew that on account of frequent firing of guns in the locality the firing of his gun would not attract attention.

Not another person on earth, Spann declared, was known who had a motive and such hatred as was shown to have existed against Lizzie, except James Gillespie. His conduct after the shooting, Spann said, was heartless. He made no inquiry for the welfare of his sister. He remained indoors for fear of betraying himself to the authorities. He did not care how his sister was after the shooting. He made no effort to find the murderer. It was evidence by his own brother, Spann said, that upon the next morning after the shooting, the whole community suspected James Gillespie.

He employed a lawyer, he said, and before he was indicted, he refused to answer questions before the grand jury; he impeded the investigation all he could; James Gillespie confessed his guilt, Spann argued, by stating to the grand jury that he refused to answer for fear it would incriminate him.

TO TEST ILLINOIS GAME LAW.
Hunter Who Was Fined Appeals to the Supreme Court.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 27.—The first of the suits to test the constitutionality of the Illinois game law reached the Supreme Court today on a writ of error from Greene County. The writ was issued at the instance of Henry J. Cummings, who was fined $12 and costs for hunting without a license, in a case brought by Game Warden Frank Rowley.

The suit raises the question of the constitutionality of the law on two points. One is that the law is invalid for the reason that it undertakes to discriminate between the game of the residents; the other that it undertakes to exempt from the penalties of the statute the owners of farm lands and their tenants, and therefore violates the provision of the constitution which prohibits special legislation.

CALLS VAINLY FOR HER TWIN SISTER

Little Julia and Jennie Kwersemacher Played House and Dolls Together.

LATTER KILLED BY A CAR

"Mamma Says Jennie Won't Ever Come Back Any More," Lissa Surviving Child.

"I want Jennie to come play house with me, but Jennie won't come. She won't never come back any more," said 4-year-old Julia Kwersemacher between sobs, time and time again, Friday morning.

Julia's twin sister, Jennie, was run over and killed Thursday night by a Seventh street car in front of her home, 123 South Seventh street, and died a short time later at the City Hospital.

Jennie and Julia were twins, just over 4 years old, and they were of course always playing together. Their favorite game was with top blocks, with which they erected all manner of castles and houses of enormous size and peculiar architecture. Then they had their dolls to occupy the house and castles, they being the monarchs over all.

Every morning the minute breakfast was ended, the blocks were brought from their box and the play began, to last all day. Friday morning little Julia had the blocks out, but she could not play with them. With tears coursing down her cheeks she would say over and over again, "Jennie won't ever come back any more, because God wanted Jennie. Yes, I know she wants to come, but mamma says she can't."

"See, Jennie lived over here, and this was her little girl (the doll), but now she ain't got any mamma. I've got two little girls now."

Little Jennie was given permission Thursday evening to go to a neighboring grocery store with Lawrence Wernicke, a little boy who lived close by. On the way back, she fell behind her companion, who went on to his home. A Seventh street car, which was going at good speed, bore down upon the child. She did not see it, and the motorman had not time to stop his car. The child was struck and drawn under the wheels, both limbs being mashed.

She was carried into a saloon near by, where she was laid upon a table. Patrolman Lauer, who was a short distance away, heard the cries of the child, and rushed to the scene. He hurriedly summoned an ambulance, and a remarkably fast trip was made to the hospital. In hope that an operation immediately would save her life. She died, however, within 15 minutes after reaching the hospital.

There was a touching scene in the operating room just a few moments before the death of the child. Her father and 7-year-old brother, Eddie, had called at the hospital to see the child. The small boy was not admitted to the operating room, but remained outside, seated upon the steps at the entrance to the hospital, weeping silently. Parties passing tried to draw from him the cause of his tears, but he would say nothing.

In the operating room—the father approached the table upon which the child was lying. He spoke to her, but there was no answer. Her eyes were closed, and apparently she had already died away.

"Jennie, don't you know me?" asked the father in a hoarse whisper, the tears streaming from his eyes.

"You know me," she replied, attempting to raise her head from the table, but she had not the strength.

"Tell mamma, and sister, and brother good-by, because I won't see them any more," she said bravely.

Finally kissing the little one, the father groped his way to the door, his eyes blinded by the tears, and hurried home to convey the great, feared news to the mother and children.

NEW YORK, May 27.—"Catch that woman quick. She stole $5 in gold from my office and is trying to get away on that car," cried Dentist Adolph Stein of 55 Central Park West, to Policeman Brownell at Seventy-second street and Tenth avenue.

Brownell sprinted after the car and took from it to the West Sixty-eighth street station a pretty young woman the dentist pointed out. She said she was Rose Garriot of 210 West Forty-fifth street.

"Have you got his gold?" asked Magistrate Mayo in the West Side court.

If You Knew

you could be relieved of that periodic or chronic nervous or sick headache in a few minutes, would you continue to suffer?

Especially when you are assured of the fact that the remedy is perfectly harmless and will have absolutely no other effect, except to relieve and cure the pain.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will bring such relief, quick and sure.

That is not all. They will prevent and cure all kinds of pain—Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Menstrual Pain, Headache, etc., etc.

Gen. A. Jacobs, merchant, Lima, Ohio, recommends Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills as follows:

"I am anxious that all should know the virtue of these pills. I have used them for years and consider them marvellous in their instantaneous relief of headache and all pain, while they leave no disagreeable after-effects."

"And under a guarantee that first package will benefit, or druggist will return your money. 30 doses, 25 cents. Never add to your suffering."

ROLLS CHAIR NO MORE; JOINS BAND

College Lad From Kansas Wheels Conductor Innes and Himself Into a Better Job.

MUSICIAN ADMIRER HIS PLUCK

While He Could Not Use a "Fair Flutist" He Did Need at Once a Librarian.

Hubert E. Small Friday morning "turned in" his badge, No. 112, and uniform as a roller chair man at the Exposition. Tomorrow night he will leave St. Louis with Innes' band.

Mr. Small's recent associates envy him his good fortune, but admire the ingenuity which made possible his resignation from their ranks.

Small came to the Exposition two weeks ago from a college at Emporia, Kan., where he was a freshman. He did not put up $3 with the concession company for a uniform just because he had an ambition to push a chair around the grounds, but because it would give him an opportunity to see the fair and make a little money while looking for a "better job."

It happens that the concession company have a line on the application blanks for roller chair men, and asking them to state their musical ability. If any of them is explained to be for the purpose of forming a glee club or orchestral organization during the season.

On Small's application appeared the words "Fair Flutist."

No particular attention was paid to this inscription by the company. Small's associates noticed that he was very fond of rolling his chair up to the band stands and taking a position as close as possible to the flute players.

Small would not only push his chair towards the flute players when he had a passenger, but when idle he would seek prospective customers among the crowds listening to the music.

As Mr. Innes' band stand Tuesday night last Small approached him, lifted his cap and offered to wheel him to the entrance of the grounds.

Mr. Innes at first suspected that the roller chair man had favored a new scheme to "hold him up" and declined the offer.

"It won't cost you a cent," said the young man from Kansas. Mr. Innes hesitated a minute and then got in.

"I'm a musician myself," observed Small as he rolled the bandmaster along the place.

"Yes," said Innes. "What do you play?" Small explained that he played the flute and would like to play in Innes' band.

"Come to my office in the Chemical building tomorrow morning then," said Innes. Small appeared the next day at the time under his arm. The bandmaster told him to play something of his own selection and he played an excerpt from "The Provost."

Mr. Innes was pleased with Mr. Small's playing was not artistically perfect, but it was good.

"I can't give you a position as flutist," said Innes. "But I will hire you right away. I like your pluck and persistence. Just resign from that roller chair brigade and I will take you with me as librarian of my band." Small is 22 years old.

Sues Jerusalem Company.

Suit seeking to recover $420.30 alleged to be due her for traveling expenses and salary has been filed by Lydia M. Von F. against the Jerusalem Exhibit Co.

The petitioner was a lecturer for the company until the close of the World's fair, but she was discharged a few days ago because she refused to head a parade to be given on the grounds. She asserts, she has reported for duty a lecturer daily, but has been ignored.

Pupils Observe Day.

At the Wheatley school, corner of street and Boyle avenue, observed Memorial Day Friday afternoon, observed with musical and literary selections. The program was under the direction of J. J. Brown, principal of the school.

"I'M TIRED," said the child. "Please may I go home with you?"

His big tie had twisted out of gear, there were dark marks on his white blouse, and his blue cap with shiny back was set aside on the unbrushed hair.

His little hands took hold of mine, and his eyes examined me with awe.

We had been sitting in the last seats of the Mothers' convention in the Hall of Congresses. Elizabeth must be a good girl and mind Mary. I'm going to the Mothers' convention at the World's Fair.

"Elizabeth wanted to know what a convention was, but she didn't ask mamma," she asked me. "Course I knew that it was a place where crowds of people go."

"But Elizabeth wanted to know why—why see, she's a girl."

"I told her it was to talk about things. Then we guessed what mothers talk about. Elizabeth said it was about children's dresses and hats and bonnets."

Elizabeth said it was about children's dresses and hats and bonnets.

Fair Visitors Thinking They Are Entering Pike Leave Grounds Through Exit Gates.

POLICE ASSIST PARTY BACK

Arrangement of Lindell Entrance Proves Confusing and Strangers Are Heard to Complain.

There is much confusion at the Lindell entrance to the fair because of the layout of gates and exits. Visitors are complaining bitterly after day. The big exit gate to many people from the inside has the appearance of being the entrance to the Pike and persons thinking that way and acting accordingly have been obliged to pay a second admission to get back within the gates, as the gatekeepers explain that they have no discretionary power, but must see that the strict letter of the rule is lived up to.

Seldom does a day pass that visitors do not lose their bearings and inadvertently walk out of the grounds, thinking they are going up the Pike. Pleading with gatekeepers are of no avail, as they say that they have no right to straighten out mistakes of that kind.

Sometimes persons go away disgusted, calling the Exposition company the "impossible company" and still others reluctantly walk up to the box office and purchase admission tickets.

An instance happened Thursday afternoon when Police Captain Young had a mistake with the gatekeeper. He said that he had "his orders" and was obliged to carry out the rule.

He saw the quintet come out of the gate and told the gatekeeper that the party was all right. Still the gatekeeper refused to allow them to re-enter the grounds without new tickets. The captain instructed him to take the party to the inspector of gates and explain the situation that had been done. The visitors were allowed to enter without buying additional tickets.

ACROSS CONTINENT TO "LOSE" A CORN

Chinese Fair Commissioner Goes to San Francisco to Be Treated by Chiropractor.

MADE LAME BY TINY GROWTH

Embarrassment in Attending Prince Pu Lun Caused His Decision for Heroic Treatment.

A wee corn—gone the least troublesome because it was the size of a pencil tip, was the sole cause of the departure Friday of Yu Chi Yi, commissioner to the World's Fair from the Chinese province of Shan Tung, on a steamship journey.

A Commissioner Yu is now aboard a limited train en route for San Francisco, where he will intrust to his family physician, Dr. Sam Him, the task of removing the refractory growth.

While believing that St. Louis is well supplied with chiropractors, Commissioner Yu Chi Yi stated as he limped aboard the train that he most preferred that the delicate work be performed by a physician from his native clime, who would better understand that under no circumstances must a mandarin of the Flowery Kingdom be mutilated.

To lose a member of the body, even though it be but the little toe on the left foot, would be a calamity hardly to be appreciated by an American.

And the corn, stated the commissioner through his interpreter, Secretary Nam Owan, simply must come out. It had interfered with Yu's attendance on Prince Pu Lun, causing the commissioner to limp in a most embarrassing manner.

The commissioner hopes to return to St. Louis for the second visit of the prince in June.

EDUCATES HINDU BOYS IN U.S.

Plan for Directing Missionary Funds in Another Direction Suggested.

Swami Ram, who will address the congress of religions at the World's Fair late in June, is in America for the purpose of devoting funds now spent in the employment of missionaries to the education of Hindu boys in universities of the United States.

That, says Swami Ram, is the only way to eventually reach the Hindu heart, break down the Hindu caste and rescue the people of India from the evil customs of child marriage, enslavement of womanhood, and to relieve the suffering Shudras.

Swami Ram was professor of natural philosophy at Punjab University and acted as president of the parliament of religions held at Muttra, India. He declares that American and European missionaries are accomplishing little in India, and that the work must be done through native missionaries. To this end he is here raising funds to bring the poorer but promising Indian students to American universities, where they may imbibe the freedom and get in touch with the progressive spirit of America. President Jordan of Lehigh University, President B. L. Wheeler of the California University and Judge Morrow of the United States Court of Appeals are co-sponsors of the fund. The West is taking the lead in the work.

International Tuberculosis Congress.

COPENHAGEN, May 27.—The International Tuberculosis Congress was formally opened in Parliament House today under the presidency of Prof. Brouhaard of Paris. Crown Prince Frederick, the ministers and members of the diplomatic corps, including United Minister Swenson, were among those in attendance. Delegates from 20 countries, among them Dr. Pottinger of Los Angeles, Cal., and the president of New York were present. Premier Deusterer welcomed the delegates. After the opening ceremony the Crown Prince mingled with the delegates and conversed with Mr. Trudeau and Dr. Pottinger.
